Hint

Hint is a screen fabric that has been specifically developed for wall panels, desk screens, room dividers and other low-abrasion surfaces. Designed by Giulio Ridolfo, it stands out for its natural look and timeless colours.

Densely woven, Hint has a smooth, rich feel. Its refined expression derives from a special yarn. This only partly absorbs dye, creating a melange expression that is reminiscent of wool or linen.

The colour palette for Hint is characterised by gentle, natural nuances, such as cool greys, dusty blues and warm greens. It also offers a few bolder, warmer notes like ochre.

Hint has been developed for architects who desire a resource-efficient textile for decorative surfaces. As it may only be specified for low-wear usage, it can be produced using less material than upholstery fabrics.

Giulio Ridolfo

Italian 'colour master' Giulio Ridolfo graduated with a Masters Degree in Fashion Design from Milan's Domus Academy in 1985 and has since worked as a sought after colour advisor to many of the world's leading interior, clothing and footwear companies.

Ridolfo draws his inspiration from diverse sources such as photography, art and fashion. He gathers images, colours, patterns and textures then combines these different elements and expressions until he creates something new.
