Campas 300

Campas 300 is an elegant matte curtain, which stands out for its voluminous drape and vibrant tranquillity. Solid-coloured, it comes in an updated colour scale by artist and designer Finn Sködt.

Constructed with a satin binding, Campas 300 is tightly woven and has a smooth surface with a subtle diagonal structure. Due to its elegant draping properties, it combines particularly well with light or patterned sheers.

The updated palette for Campas 300 has been refined into 20 colourways, which complement the curtain's smooth, firm construction and accentuate its signature colour properties. Ranging from vibrant nuances of azure and carmine to rich neutral tones, each hue is precisely derived from Finn Sködt's extensive archive of hand-painted samples which he has collected during his career as a painter.

Ideal for private and public spaces, Campas 300 comes in a new floor-to-ceiling width of 300 cm to meet the increasing demands of spacious modern interiors. Thanks to its densely woven construction and choice of dark shades, it can be used to dim rooms.

Finn Sködt

Trained as a graphic artist at the Graphic Institute of Denmark in Copenhagen, Finn Sködt is a painter, graphic artist and textile designer. He is renowned for his pure aesthetic and exceptional ability in first finding, and then blending, colours. His work stands out for its pure aesthetic and often features his favourite colour: ultramarine blue. According to Finn Sködt, colours have an autonomy about them - an ability to elude any system. Reflecting this, his work demonstrates the belief that colours should be perceived in the pigment and in the fabric, not in a colour system.
